

It's time to clean out your shed

With dry conditions effecting many parts of New South Wales, it's time to think about cleaning out your sheds and your property of used agvet containers and unused chemicals.

Even through busy periods during the year farmers need to be aware of the requirements for safe and effective disposal of their used chemicals and containers.

It is also just good farm practice, which ensures your family and employees stay safe.

Local community groups benefit from drumMUSTER collections.

Local community groups who conduct collections for drumMUSTER raise funds through these collections for their community. By bringing in your clean, eligible containers you're helping your community.

- 1 Gather up any used agvet containers. If they're drumMUSTER eligible get them to your nearest collection site for recycling. Remember, your local community groups raise funds through the collection of drumMUSTER containers.
- 2 If you have unused or obsolete agvet chemicals, register these with ChemClear for collection. You will be notified when a collection is happening in your area.
- 3 If you have any questions please contact drumMUSTER on 1800 008 707
